ISTANBUL

Istanbul is truly a world city, a city which everyone should visit at least once in their lifetime. It is an enchanting blend of Eastern and Western culture, a vibrant, modern city, with a unique identity. Its rich past coexists alongside its youthful exuberance. Although no longer the capital of Turkey, Istanbul still remains the country's cultural and business centre.

It is a city of contrasts, bustling with the cacophony of 21st century life, and is yet achingly beautiful. It is set in a stunning location, surrounded by water, which is the narrow strait of the Bosphorus and the serene sea of Marmara separating Europe from Asia. Istanbul has a foot in each, celebrating the best of both heritages. As Byzantium, Constantinople and finally, Istanbul, it has been the capital of three Empires, each leaving their mark in the form of stunning palaces, castles, mosques, churches and monuments. The legacy of its chequered past can be seen on every turn of the modern city.

The layout of Istanbul can seem confusing at first. The Bosphorus divides the city into the European and Asian sides, linked by two magnificent bridges, spanning the continents, the first of which was opened in 1973 to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Republic. Most visitors to the city, staying for a few days, will have little reason to visit the Asian side, except for as part of a Bosphorus tour, on a boat which zigzags from side to side, to take in the best of each.

The European side, however, is also divided in two by the Golden Horn or Haliç, which roughly divides the historic part of old Istanbul, encompassing the areas of, Sultanahmet and Laleli, from the modern city.

It is crossed by a number of bridges, the most famous of which is the pontoon, the Galata Bridge. Most visitors on short city breaks stay in the old town as the vast majority of the sites which they will be visiting are in this area. Istanbul's most famous sites - The Blue Mosque, Ayasofya (Hagia Sophia), Topkapı Sarayı (Palace) and the Grand Bazaar (Kapalı Çarşı) - are all within a 30 minute walk of each other. It is easy to get around on foot or by making use of the tram, which provides a regular service on the pedestrianised main street. In terms of accommodation, there are now a number of characterful boutique hotels in the area of Sultanahmet, many of which are restored Ottoman wooden mansions. These are ideal for those who really want to savour the authentic atmosphere of the Old Town. Those on a budget, may want to consider the more modern, and competitively priced hotels of the Laleli district, although this area is much busier. Although it is convenient, the disadvantage of staying in the Old Town, is that, since it is not a residential area, you don't really benefit from the ambience of the modern city of Istanbul, with its excellent restaurants, lively bars, and cosmopolitan feel. Some of Istanbul's finest, most luxurious hotels are located on the Bosphorus with stunning views over the straits, or in the modern business districts. There are also some historic establishments in the area known as Pera, which blossomed at the turn of the last century. The heart of modern Istanbul, is Taksim Square and the streets around. The advantage of staying here is that in the evenings you have a wealth of

There are a couple of handy trams - one in the old town, and one on the shopping street in Pera, İstiklal Caddesi. Taxis are plentiful and there are also dolmuş and bus services for those who really want to go. Operators can arrange tours to see the main sights.

The Bosphorus

Some of Istanbul's finest vistas are to be seen from the Bosphorus, well worth spending at least half a day viewing the sights and sounds. You can take a guided tour on a small boat, or Turkish Maritime Authority's good value public ferry service which leaves two or three times a day on a round trip as far as Anadolu Kavağı, the nearest village to the Asian side, and back to Eminönü. It is a charming place, known for its views. As you leave from Eminönü you can benefit from some of the best views towards the old town with its evocative skyline of turreted roofs. As you head towards the Black Sea you will pass the Dolmabahçe Palace and the 15th century fortresses built by Mehmet II, Rumeli Hisarları. Also look out for the stunning wooden Ottoman mansions, many of which are renovated and form some of the city's most desirable residential areas. For time for a Bosphorus trip just take one of the distinctive city ferries from Eminönü to the Asian shores and back – to Üsküdar for example, to enjoy views of the old town.

The Princes Islands

Those who are staying for a little longer in Istanbul, should consider visiting these charming islands in the sea of Marmara, just off the coast. The picturesque scenery of wooded hills, charming beaches and historic mansions, combined with the tranquil atmosphere, make for a pleasant contrast to the city itself. Even if you take a hydrofoil, the ambience of the islands seems worlds away. Büyük Ada, or "Big Island" is the most popular with visitors and you can take a trip in a horse and carriage to visit the Monastery of the Holy Cross.

ANKARA

The history of Ankara and its surroundings stretches back to the Bronze Age. Two thousand years before the time of Jesus, the dominant power of the region, and were then followed by the Persians. In the 3rd Century BC, a Celtic race known as the Phrygians made their capital city.

The name Ankara comes from the word 'Ancyra', which means 'ancient city'.

Ankara gained prominence under the leadership of Atatürk during the resistance which followed World War I. It was declared the capital of the Republic on October 13th 1923 when the National War of Independence freed Turkey from foreign occupation. Occupying one of the most prominent parts of the city is the Atatürk Mausoleum constructed to commemorate Atatürk. This structure, completed in 1953, is a synthesis of antique and modern architectural styles, reflecting the elegance and strength of Turkish architecture.

The oldest parts of the city surround the Castle. The Alaaddin Mosque and its walls is still one of the best examples of Selcuk art and woodwork. The fact that it was restored by the Ottomans. The area has expanded with the restoration of many interesting old Turkish houses, museums, art galleries and fine restaurants which feature examples of traditional Turkish art.

The gate of the castle is the Museum of Anatolian Civilizations. The restored portion of the old bazaar. It contains priceless artifacts from the Paleolithic and Neolithic eras as well as the Hatti, Hittite, Phrygian, and other civilizations.

IZMIR

Izmir, the city which is home to the Temple of Artemis, one of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World...

"I am 8,500 years old..." says the city of Homer...

The legendary female warriors, the Amazons, founded Izmir, or Smyrna as it was called in Ancient Times, according to one story. Alternatively, according to another tale, the Lelegs established it. The city is located on the Aegean Coast in the west of Turkey, and the city is the biggest and most important settlement in the Aegean Region. Izmir, which has managed to modernize whilst preserving its archaeological and historical assets, is an important trade centre, because of its port. The diversity of activities and resources that Izmir is able to provide makes it a very attractive area for tourism. It boasts both spas with healing thermal waters, and the deep blue sea with beaches displaying the safety symbol of the blue flag.

Izmir resonates with the water and the wind. Benefiting from the breeze from the Aegean Sea, Izmir enjoys a well-deserved reputation due to sights and ruins such as Bergama (Pergamon), Çeşme, Foça, Kemalpaşa, Selçuk, Tire and Urla, which are outstanding in terms of the richness of their natural and historical assets.

The city, known as "Beautiful Izmir" in Turkey, is located at the start of a long and narrow gulf, decorated with yachts, passenger ships and gulf steamers. It has a warm climate and the cooling sea breeze in the summer takes away the burning heat of the sun. Izmir, which enjoys a special cultural and historical identity, is the third largest city in Turkey. Its port, located inside the gulf, is the second largest in Turkey. Is a large metropolis in the western extremity of Anatolia. Standing on Mount Yamanlar, the tomb of Tantalus was explored by Charles Texier in 1835 and is an example of the historic traces in the region prior to the Hellenistic Age, along with those found in nearby. The Agora of Smyrna is well preserved, and is arranged into the Agora Open Air Museum of Izmir, although important parts buried under modern buildings are waiting to be brought to daylight. Serious consideration is also being given to uncovering the ancient theatre of Smyrna where St. Polycarp was martyred, buried under an urban zone on the slopes of Kadifekale. It was distinguishable until the 19th century, as evident by the sketching's done at the time. On top of the same hill soars an ancient castle which is one of the landmarks of Izmir.

TRABZON

The modern city of Trabzon is the largest port along the coast at the beginning of the Caucasus and Iran transit road. Since the Soviet Union, there has been an influx of traders from the neighbouring Georgia, and the city is becoming more Trabzon is probably best remembered from the classic 'Trebizond', and many earlier pieces of travel literature. The remains of the romanticised image of exotic culture and the highlights is Aya Sofia, the medieval church with its frescoes, the Russian Market and the old houses and narrow streets of the town. Trabzon is a good transport hub from which to explore the Sea region.

Trabzon has typical of a Black Sea climate, with rain and temperatures reaching up to around 27°C in the summer and damp, and the lowest temperature is around 5°C in the winter. The temperature fluctuates between 10° - 20°C throughout the year. The ruins of a monastery can be seen on the slopes of the mountain to the south of Trabzon and at the foot of the mountain. A wooded valley flows one of the tributaries of the Değirmentepe river, which terminates at Trabzon. This place is known as 'Meryem Ana' (Mary) by the local people. Its old name is 'Sumela Monastery'. They consider its origins to be extremely old, and this opinion is shared among the Byzantine Greek community of the Black Sea. Legends about the foundation of the monastery in book form, printed in Greek, the monastery was originally founded by Theodosius and rebuilt in the sixth century in the reign of Justinian I. Belisarios, one of his commanders. However, foreign scholars who conducted on-site investigations consider that there is no evidence for this hypothesis.

The Monastery's main source of income is an icon of the Virgin Mary, which is reputed to be of great age and believed by many to have miraculous properties. According to the legend, the icon is the work of one of the disciples of Jesus Christ and it was sent to Athens by Luke.

However, in the reign of Theodosius (4th century) the icon was taken to leave Athens and was borne to this hollow in the mountains of Trabzon by angels and placed upon a stone. It was at this time that the hermits by the name of Barnabus and Sophronius, who

ANTALYA

Antalya, the Turkish Riviera is the most stunning part of Turkey's Mediterranean coast. It is typical of Turkey, a thriving modern city, with a historic heart in the centre of Kaleiçi within the old city walls. This area has seen something of a renaissance in recent years, with many of the wooden Ottoman mansions being restored and turned into boutique hotels. No cars are allowed in the narrow streets of the old town so it is a good place to soak up the atmosphere around the charming harbour. The symbol of Antalya is the fluted minaret or Yivli Minare built by the Seljuks in the 13th century. There are plenty of interesting pieces in the Archaeological Museum, from the Palaeolithic Age right through to Ottoman times.

Antalya is a city on the Mediterranean coast of southwestern Turkey. It was the world's fourth most visited city by number of international arrivals in 2010. Antalya offers a variety of beaches and other natural highlights. There are a number of mosques, churches, madrasahs, masjids, hans (caravanserais) and hamams (Turkish bath) in the city. Kaleiçi, the harbor, which the city walls enclose, is the oldest part of the city. Kaleiçi features many historic houses with traditional Turkish and local Greek architecture.

Antalya has a backdrop of stunning mountain scenery, and the city is set high on cliffs, with many of its grandest hotels overlooking the sea on the outskirts of the town. The beach area of Lara, approximately 12 km to the east is home to the best beach in the area, known for its golden sand, which is rapidly becoming a resort in its own right. There is a wide choice of accommodation, from five star hotels to small apartments, but the vast majority is of three star standard. Most of the accommodation is built on either side of the main seafront. Some is on the seafront itself, but many of the newer hotels are on the hillside above the town of Armutalan.

BURSA

The city of Bursa, southeast of the Sea of Marmara, lies on the lower slopes of Uludag (Mt. Olympus of Mysia, 2543 meters). The city derives its name from its founder King Prusias of Bithynia. Its previous antique name was Prussa ad Hypium. It subsequently came under Roman, then Byzantine rule before falling to Orhan Gazi in 1326, when it became the first capital of the Ottoman Empire. Many important Ottoman buildings remain.

Known as "Green Bursa", the city is filled with gardens and parks and overlooks a verdant plain. It is at the center of an important fruit growing region. Bursa was, and is still, famous for its peaches, silk trade, towel manufacture and thermal springs. Make a point to try the locally-created iskender Kebab, a dish of bread, tomato sauce, strips of grilled meat, melted butter and yogurt. Candied chestnuts are another regional specialty.

A tour of the city begins in the eastern section at the Yesil Tiirbe (Green Mausoleum). Set in a garden and distinguished by its exterior paneling of tiles, the mausoleum holds the tiled cenotaph of Sultan Mehmet I. Across the street, the Yesil Mosque of 1424 reflects the new Ottoman, as opposed to Seljuk, aesthetic. A medrese nearby completes the complex and is also home to the Ethnography Museum. Before exploring this area, stop for a glass of tea in one of the traditional tea houses. Going uphill, to the east, you pass by the Emir Sultan Mosque in its delightful setting, and after walking through a district of old houses you reach the Yildirim Bayezid Mosque (1391).

Now make your way to Cumhuriyet Square (known locally as Heykel) and stroll along Ataturk Avenue to Kora Park where outdoor cafes are set among flowers and fountains. At the back of the park, a long building, the Koza Han (1490), houses the silk cocoon trade. From here you proceed to the covered bazaar area, with its narrow streets, caravanserais and bedesten. On the other side of Koza Park stands one of Bursa's oldest religious buildings, the Orhan Gazi Mosque, built in 1339. Nearby is the large Ulu Mosque, /constructed in the Seljuk style. A finely carved walnut minber (speaker's platform) and impressive calligraphic panels decorate the mosque. The Orhan Gazi, who commanded the army that conquered Bursa, offer a good place to stop for refreshment.

At the Yildiz Park Tea Gardens in the Muradiye quarter, you can visit the Muradiye Complex. The compound, in a tranquil park-like setting, was built by Sultan Murat II (1426) built in the style of the Yesil Mosque. It includes the Yesil Mosque, the Yesil Madrese, the Yesil Hamam, the Yesil Tiirbe, the Yesil Tiirbe II, Şehzade Cem and Şehzade Mustafa. These contain some of the loveliest decoration and tile work. The Bursa City Museum is in a restored 17th century dwelling that provides a glimpse into the lives of wealthy Ottomans.

Other places of interest in Bursa include the Culture Park with its open-air museum, TOFAS Museum of Anatolian Cars which has been recently opened, the Atatiirk Museum on the road to Cekirge and the City Museum.

The western suburb of Cekirge has been known since Roman times for being rich in minerals. Many modern hotels have thermal bath facilities, as do the old hamams. Yeni Kaplica (New Spring) was built in 1511 by the Grand Vizier of Suleyman the Magnificent. The Eski Kaplica (Old Spring), built on the site of the original, is the oldest bath. The Karamustafa Pasa baths are reputed to have been built in the area. Buildings of interest in Cekirge include the Mosque of Suleyman I and the tomb of Suleyman Celebi, a religious poet. The mosque commemorates the character whose humorous antics are immortalized in the Shadow Puppet Theater.

Thirty-six kilometers from Bursa is Uludag, the largest center of winter sports and offers a variety of activities, accommodation and entertainment. The slopes are easily reached by car or cable car (teleferik). It is a good time for skiing, although the area, Uludag National Park, is a protected area of the year for the lovely views and wonderful fresh air.

A seaside resort town 25 km from Bursa, Mudanya's fine fish restaurants are popular with the residents of Bursa. The Armistice Museum is 12 km from Mudanya, Zeytinbagi (Tirilye) exemplifies the atmosphere of a typical Turkish town. The Gulf of Gemlik 29 km from Bursa has wide sandy beaches and is a favorite.

KAPADOKYA (CAPPADOCIA)

The region known as Cappadocia includes the centres of Ürgüp, Göreme, Avanos, Üçhisar, Derinkuyu, Kaymaklı and Ihlara. It is a stunning area of other-worldly rock formations, subterranean churches and underground dwellings, the scale of which is over-whelming. The area is also famous for its carpet-weaving, wines and the distinctive red pottery of the Avanos area.

Cappadocia was a refuge for the early Christians, who escaped persecution by living and worshipping underground. There are an estimated 3000 rock churches in this region, not all of which are open to the public. The village of Göreme itself is at the heart of the area's tourist industry, and many of its villagers still live in cave dwellings, some of which have been converted into pensions. Surrounding the area are the amazing rock formations known evocatively as Peri Bacaları or 'Fairy Chimneys'.

Located to the west of Niğde, is the stunning Ihlara Valley, a gorge which is 10 km long and some 80 metres wide. Popular for trekking, about 12 of its 60 churches are open to the public including the impressive Eğritaş Church. There are hundreds of underground cities in the regions. Two of the most impressive are Kaymaklı, which has 8 levels, and Derinkuyu, which reaches down to 55 metres. They were used by the Christians fleeing persecution in the 7th century, who created a self-sufficient environment underground including bedrooms, kitchens and storage rooms.

HISTORY

The Hattis, followed by the Hittites, Phrygians, Persians, Romans, Byzantines, Seljuks, and Ottomans were all enchanted by the allure of Cappadocia and left the imprint of their own presence here including important trade routes, such as the illustrious Silk Road which traversed east, west, north and south. As a result of this heavy traffic, the region was a complex web of historical and cultural influences. Cappadocia was the place where different faiths and philosophies met and influenced one another.

Frescoed churches and dwellings carved into the cliffs extend from Ihlara Valley, which is 40 km from Aksaray, and as far as 14 km to the town of Selime.

Some of these structures can be dated back to as early as the 4th century A.D. Among the many sights worth seeing are the Eğritaş, Ağaç Altı, Kokar, Yılanlı, Pürenli, Kırkdamaltı, Ala, Direkli, the Kale Manastırı churches, and the Selime Cathedral.

Because of its location, Cappadocia was an extremely critical and strategic region. As Cappadocia's trade and resources were tempting prizes, the region was frequently invaded, raided, and looted. To protect themselves from such depredations, the local inhabitants took to living in the region's caverns and grottos whose entrances could be concealed, so as not to be noticed by trouble-making outsiders. Since it might have been necessary to.

The area is a popular tourist destination, as it has many areas with unique geological, historic, and cultural features. The best historic mansions and cave houses for tourist stays are in Urgup, Goreme, Guzelyurt, and Uchisar. Hot-air ballooning is very popular in Cappadocia and is available in Goreme. Trekking is enjoyed in Ihlara Valley, Monestry Valley (Guzelyurt), Urgup, and Goreme.

lie low for extended periods of time, these troglodytic dwellings and subterranean cities that included sources of water, places to worship, and temples. Some of them date back to before the Christian era.

WHAT TO SEE

Göreme

Göreme and its environs, located ten kilometres from Nevşehir, have been used as a necropolis during Roman times by the inhabitants of the region (Avanos). The Göreme region is often referred to as the "belly of the Earth". The Open-Air Museum is where the "educational System that united the world of Christianity" of St. Basil the Great and his brothers, was born. The Convent of Monks and Nuns, the Chapel of St. Basil, and the Karanlık, and Çarıklı churches, the architectural details and the atmosphere are as today as when they were when they were new.

Ürgüp

Ürgüp, near Göreme, is a famous city with wines, as its history is full of beauties. Whether your wine is served to you in a rustic earthenware or an elegant crystal goblet, it will be an experience that you'll never forget. Some local winemakers have adopted modern techniques of wine-making, but still many that remain faithful to the ancient and timeproven methods.

PAMUKKALE

The stunning white terraces of Pamukkale and the neighbouring site of Hierapolis are situated inland, close to the town of Denizli. They can be reached from most of the coastal resorts on a one or two day trip but Kuşadası is the closest - approximately 4 hours drive away.

Pamukkale literally means 'cotton castle' and is one of Turkey's most impressive natural wonders. It is made up of a series of white travertine terraces cascading down a cliff, which is almost 200 metres high. The hard, white mineral deposits, which from a distance resemble snow, are caused by the high mineral content of the natural spring water which runs down the cliff and congregates in warm pools on the terraces. This is such a popular tourist attraction that strict rules had to be established in order to preserve its beauty, which include the fact that visitors may no longer walk on the terraces. Those who want to enjoy the thermal waters, however, can take a dip in the nearby pool, littered with fragments of marble pillars.

It was the thermal waters which lead to the founding of the spa town of Hierapolis at the end of the 2nd century BC by the dynasty of the Attalids, the kings of Pergamon. The remains include the ancient ruins of the baths, temples, the well-preserved theatre, and the largest necropolis or graveyard in Anatolia containing over 1200 tombs. It is easy to book an excursion from any

KUSAD

It is a good all round holiday destination offering great beaches, excellent shopping and some serious sightseeing. Kuşadası literally means 'Bird Island' and takes its name from a small island known as Güvercin Adası or Pigeon Island, which is attached to the mainland by a causeway and boasts a 14th century Genoese fort. There are many beautiful sandy beaches in the area. Kadınlar Plajı or 'Ladies Beach' is very popular but can get crowded so it is wiser in high season to head a little further out to sea. The centre where the beaches are just as sandy but offer more space. Kaleiçi is the old centre of the town and is a lovely area for shopping and entertainment. The Ottoman Kervansaray is now in private hands but is an impressive building and a landmark in the town centre. Kuşadası's setting also makes it a good base for those wanting to visit the ruins of Ephesus which is only approximately 30 minutes' drive away.

It is also surrounded by some of Turkey's most beautiful natural scenery, including the Kalamaki National Park which lies on the Dilek Peninsula.

Is a favorite vacation and excursion spot travelers thanks to the natural beauty of its surroundings, which are covered with dense forests. The lake covers an area of 1.28 km² and its deepest spot is 18 m.

Igneada Is a small town in Turkey's Kırklareli Province on the Black Sea Coast, approximately 5 km from the Rezovo River which forms the border with Bulgaria.

The first settlement in the region dates back to the Prehistoric Period, in around 3000 BC. The city is famous for its hot springs in Thermal district, which gets its name from the Latin word thermae.

22. DINING: SARNIC RESTAURANT THE CISTERN TOUR

Tour Code: IST/DCT: 3422 Evening Tour

Per P

Sarnic Restaurant (The Cistern) is situated at the top of a sloping, narrow street behind St. Sophia where there are a series of ancient cisterns. This magnificent building, borne on six massive stone blocks, has high brick domes and was originally built as a water cistern. Whereas, recently (meaning 1960's and 1970's), it had become a car repair shop built on what appeared to be a pile of rubble. The Turkish Touring and Automobile Association, which transformed the houses in the street into guest houses, also cleared the rubble of centuries from this cistern, restored it and translated it into to a 'Roman tavern'. The excavation required to achieve the "ground level" went down seven metres. During the process of this work it was ascertained that the bases of the six, massive, stone blocks were embedded a further three metres in the ground! During the hot days of summer, the cistern offers a cool atmosphere. At night comes, it is swathed in the mystic glow of candle light. The soft golden light from iron chandeliers paints the place with a warm glow of history. It is a place which testifies to the grand and dramatic synthesis of Istanbul's three thousand year history.

If the guests can be waited up to maximum 30 minutes on the regular tours if some other participants are already awaiting in the tour vehicle. If there are no other participants awaiting or it is a private tour then our team will do their best to assist the problem to be settled.

All the visa formalities at the arrived airports should be processed by our guests on their own since our staff is not allowed to access this point.

Those who have lost luggage problems sometimes do not get through the Customs and inform our staff promptly about the case by just waiting for some time. Our staff is not allowed to get inside by the Customs authorities and therefore there is no chance for them to look for our guests. If they go out could make our staff think that our guests were not in the plane as all the other passengers of the same plane were already out. Therefore, we request our guests to go out of the Customs and inform our staff that they are still awaiting inside due to the luggage problem before inquiring the issue. If they do not, we cannot leave the terminal after having waited 30 minutes further to the leave of the last passenger of the same plane and no refund is given on such cases.

As our transfer staff is not allowed to the point beyond the Customs our guests are supposed to deal with the luggage handling on their own. At the terminal meeting point they will be assisted properly. For the groups with more than 10 participants the portage will be paid by our transfer service. For smaller groups travelers should settle this on their own.

While our team is already awaiting at the airport, some guests may have difficulties from time to time in meeting them on arrival to the airports due to the crowd despite their names are written on the boards that are held by our staff and also due to the early landings of the planes. If the guests do not find our staff at the hotel without extensively looking for our staff and calling our office promptly no refund will be given in case our staff is still at the airport. Similarly, if the guests arrive at the airport earlier than the scheduled time are supposed to contact our office as our staff arrives to the airport 15 minutes ago prior to the landing time of the planes. For the delayed flights our staff can wait up to maximum 2 hours. For further delays our guests are expected to take care of themselves at the hotel without any refund from our side. However, if the delays are advised to us in advance then there is no problem at all as our transfer service will be arranged accordingly.

28-Missed Connected Flights:

If the guests miss the connected domestic flights due to the late arrival of the international ones no responsibility is taken and all the extra costs are borne by the guests. Therefore short connection intervals between the international and domestic flights are at the risk of our guests.
